Virtue Highlight: Responsibility

I understand that I have a responsibility to God, my family, and my community. I demonstrate this virtue by holding myself accountable for my actions, by being thankful for the gifts I have been given, and by taking care of the people and places around me through both action and word.

ABOUT MLK DAY

Written by: Emersyn, Setayesh, and Julia

Martin Luther King Jr. (MLK) day is celebrated on Monday January 19 every year. Martin Luther King born on January 15, 1929 and died on April 4, 1986. Martin Luther King was a brave leader who fought for fairness for Black people in America. He led marches and helped make laws like the Civil Rights Act that ended unfair rules (segregation) so Black and White people could be friends and go to the same school and use the same bus. He won the Nobel Peace Prize and is remembered with a holiday, even though he was sadly shot and killed for his work in 1986. We celebrate MLK to honor the life, legacy, and achievements of the civil rights leader. He taught everyone that all people, no matter their skin color, should be treated with kindness and fairness. He led peaceful protests and gave powerful speeches, like his famous “I Have a Dream” speech, to make the world a better place. We celebrate his birthday every year as a national holiday to remember his important work and his dream of equality for everyone. It’s a day to remember to be kind to others and work together for justice.

MIDTERMS

Midterms are coming up very soon, midterms is a middle of the school year exam based on all the things you’ve learned so far. You should study hard for midterms because they’re worth a lot of your grade.

Here are some tips:

- Break studying down into short sessions
- Make flashcards
- Get enough sleep
- Eat well
